

WONDERS OF NATURE: BONUS PHOTOS

Lake Huron Shoreline with Great Blue Herons. Photo taken in late March by Bonnie Sitter.

How did Bonnie Sitter get tropical blue shimmering water in this early April shoreline shot?

...and now for some bird shots...

An obliging Snow Bunting posed for this Bonnie Sitter shot in early March.

Mister Horned Lark photographed by Bonnie in early March.

It looks like a fall photograph, but these Chipping Sparrows were new spring arrivals when Steve Thorpe took this photo.

A rare for Perth County sighting—Snowy Egret spotted and photographed by Herman in St Marys on April 18.

Waterfowl don't come any more colourful than this male Wood Duck photographed by Herman Veenendaal.

...meanwhile, on the botanical front...

Bloodroot plants were blooming in Exeter by April 24, as shown in this Bonnie Sitter photograph.

Trout Lilies were also coming along. Thanks for this bit of spring life, Bonnie.

Perfect timing—this milkweed pod overwintered, then released its parachuted seeds near the end of March just as bare ground was making its appearance. Another great photo courtesy of Bonnie.

...and one for our rock watchers...

What you might have seen if you'd been out along the Lake Huron shoreline with Bonnie in late March.
